Yes, it's very easy. We're happy to add any employee who wants to receive it. I've sent your email to the contractor so you should start receiving it tomorrow morning.

Justina, thanks for the discussion just now. I've notified the contractor to eliminated the late night humor from the news analysis.

Also, Kevin and others, if you would like to be added to receive the news analysis every morning, just let me know. I'll have the contractor add you to the list.

Hi Kevin and Roxanne,

I received this attachment (also see the email itself that goes out by email, apparently to EPA employees [I don't receive it myself]). The banner bears the EPA logo, but I don't Officials Meet To Discuss Inventory Of Inactive Mines In Colorado.

The Denver Post (3/30, Finley) reports officials have “ramped up efforts” to build an inventory of inactive mines that drain into Colorado waterways and prioritize them for cleanup. Agencies represented at a Wednesday meeting to discuss the inventory include: CDPHE, Colorado Geological Survey, Colorado Department of Natural Resources, US Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management, and Environmental Protection Agency. The Denver Post reports “CDPHE and the CGS are leading a $300,000 inventory initiative.”
